The Observer

Editor Review:—

Have we a Board of Trade? I'm not muckraking when I ask this question, neither am I asking out of idle curiosity.
I simply ask in behalf of the community at large. If we have n't one why have n't we? If we have a dead one why don't we resurrect it, or, if that is impossible, create a new one. Perhaps we have n't need for one. True we are making wonderful strides since the birth of the townsite two years ago. True, everything points to just as wonderful progress, in the matter of building construction only, in the future, and yet—what have we really accomplished?

Has a finger ever been raised to induce the stranger to enter our gates?
Does outside capital and prospective settlers settle here? Are we allotted a booth at the Dry Farming congress?

How many know that first wheat awarded by the above-named congress was grown in this district? Are n't we alive to the advantages of publicity?
Vulcan is teeming with possibilities.
The resources of her tributary districts are unexcelled. Now for your sake and for my sake, and above all, for the public's sake, let's WAKE UP!

Editor's note.—The contributor of the above, for obvious reasons, has asked that his name be not disclosed.

To some the article may appear erratic, even hysterical. Be that as it may it is not without merit. Still why wax satirical at the Board of Trade, as though it, and it alone were at fault (if a fault exists). Believe me, there is always two sides to any question and this is no exception. Do you know what constitutes, or should constitute a Board of Trade? One or two appointed officials? No! the public at large. Once a year, maybe, with a strenuous effort we attend a Board of Trade meeting for the purpose of appointing a President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer. Then, with a most benign smile we sit back and tell 'em to "go to it," leaving the officials to flounder around in a maze of public sentiment. Without co-operation with the public at large what can you expect? Are you getting a square deal? Are the officials getting a square deal? Is the public getting a square deal? If not, then whose fault is it? Think a minute and perhaps you'll attend the next Board of Trade meeting.

Talking about Boy Scouts, why not start a Young Men's rifle corps at the same time. Aside from the military instruction, it combines a pleasant recreation with a veritable course in physical culture. Frank Wilson can give you information about organizing.

With the possibility of a Dominion election soon, and the certainty of a Provincial election, affairs political are getting warm.

Two ambitious projects were outlined yesterday, when Hon. John R.
Boyle, minister of education, and Hon.
Charles Stewart, minister of municipal affairs, announced the Alberta government's school and highway programs. The former said it is proposed to provide a school room and a teacher every day in the year for six consecufive years, to perfect the organization of a new school district four days in each week for six years and to assist in financing the undertakings. There were 2020 school districts in Alberta at the close of 1912, as compared with 748 districts in 1906. The good roads policy, Mr. Stewart declared, involves an expenditure of $1,000,000 a year for five years, without adding a dollar to the province. Competent foremen will be employed and the money expended in such a way that the province will have a system of permanent highways.

The song of the meadow lark is in the land.

Landowners are now asked, and the spring immigration promises greater numbers than ever before.

Boy Scouts

Plans are now being laid for the organization of a detachment of Boy Scouts at this point. Whether or not a sufficient number of members can be recruited in the immediate vicinity to warrant the undertaking is doubtful, though there is no reason whatever why a lad's brigade could not make great headway. Competent parties are now going into the details and after they have had time for thorough investigation a report in full will be published. Either of the above orders are institutions which have done, and are doing a great deal towards bringing out the best, physically, mentally and morally in our youths. Without the hearty co-operation of all the parents no great headway can be made towards organization. Be ready to assist if called upon.

The Religious Census of Canada

The last religious census just published, shows the Presbyterian church to be the largest Protestant denomination in the Dominion. The Anglican church has made the largest increase during the decade. The increase in the five largest denominations is substantially as follows.

Anglican	200,000
Presbyterian	272,000
Methodist	163,000
Baptist	64,000
Lutheran	37,000

This seems to show that the Anglican and Presbyterian churches are, as in the Australian colonies, destined to be the two leading denominations in the Dominion. In Alberta the Presbyterian church stands next to the Anglican church while in B. C. the Anglican church leads. The Catholic church numbers nearly forty per cent of the entire population of the Dominion.

The Secret Marriage

By Alfred Wilson Barrett

Ward, Lock & Co., Limited
London, Melbourne & Toronto.

Whom you wouldn't follow, yes. So says he—Rivington, yes.

Yes, says he, just keep an eye on those two and let me know what they do, and where they go.

So you followed us, and you came up from Watford with us today? asked Neil.

There's no deceiving you, matey, said Mr. Coombes, admiringly.

No. And where are you to let Rivington know?

Mr. Coombes hesitated for a second.

Why, at the Royal Hotel, Dover, he said at last.

Easton looked at Neil quickly. He felt that the man was lying; but Neil's face was impenetrable, and he kept silence.

Has he paid you up, asked Neil. Or is he going to pay you from France? Mr. Coombes looked anxious. Well, he's paid me a bit, he said at length.

But of course he'll send you more when you send your news? said Neil.

Yes, that's it, said Coombes, persuasively.

Neil drew a couple of sovereigns from his pocket, and a card. Let me know his address when he sends it, he said. Here's where to find me. I told you it would be better to speak the truth. We're too late, he continued, speaking to Easton; but we'll have a try for Dover just in case of accidents. And he rose from his seat.

Coombes rose too, but Neil motioned him back. Just sit there, my man, for a quarter of an hour. We can move about without your help now, thanks, and you're better there.

Coombes pocketed the two pounds, and sat down again resignedly. Lumsy, my son don't think I'd try it again, do you? I'll let you get away, matey. Why, I'd sit here all day for a couple of golden goblets.

You needn't sit there quite so long as that, returned Neil, beckoning to Easton. Don't let the cat catch you following us again, that's all; and look here, when you get that address, let me have it, and there's another two pounds for you. That's if we miss your friend at Dover.

You don't think he's speaking the truth, do you? said Easton, as they made their way out of the little public-house, leaving Mr. Coombes peacefully contemplating the ceiling.

Neil drew him on round the corner of a narrow street that ran by the side of the building they had just left, but which was not commanded by any of its windows.

Do I think it? he said. Why, you couldn't make him speak the truth. It would kill him. But we're not at something, and one thing is that Rivington's not at Dover. We'll leave a bit more yet, if we have luck, though. Let me see.

He stopped and looked quickly up and down the street. It was a narrow little alley, almost deserted, with a baker's shop on one side, a green-grocer's on the other, and the rest of the houses apparently given up to lodgings of the cheaper sort.

Neil's eyes rested on the green-grocer's outside which stood a handcart covered with empty sacks.

Wait here, he said quickly. If Coombes comes out, get into conversation with him and keep him. Let him think I have left you, and that you hope to get something more out of him. Keep him five minutes somehow. And he dived into the green-grocer's shop and disappeared.

Easton nodded his obedience, and moving to where he could keep a watch on the public house, set himself to wait patiently as he could. But the spy did not appear, nor for a full quarter of an hour did Neil.

Then a whistle behind him made him turn suddenly to bump his hand against the green-grocer's barrow. This was pushed now by a man whose face and hands were covered with coal dust, and who was accompanied by a sharp-faced youth of fourteen or so.

Has he been out? asked the man, resting the barrow. Easton started, and then smiled.

Why, goodness, what a difference that coal dust makes! he said. I didn't know you. No, he hasn't come out yet. But you haven't wasted your time that is evident.

No, have I, said Neil, looking complacently at the shabby suit he wore and at his grimy hands. But this suit has cost me more than any other. This gentleman's father is of the Jewish persuasion, and I have had to pay for my change of costume. And, as for the barrow, it might have been the Lord Mayor's coach from the price, and our young friend here goes with it in addition as a hostage. I am afraid we must leave you behind, though. You would hardly care to get under the sacks, I am afraid.

Easton looked at the barrow and smiled. Well, really I hardly think I should mind, he said, rather than be left out of it. But perhaps I should only give the thing away.

Neil nodded. I somehow don't fancy I shall be long, he said. I am going to find out where our friend goes to when he leaves here, then I will either join you again, or send word to you at once where to find me. Will you go back to your rooms and wait? But, look out, here he comes.

Quick as lightning, Easton sprang into the doorway by which they stood, while the public-house door opened and the spy came out. But he need not have feared, for the man strode in the opposite direction, without giving a glance around him, and with a nod, Neil and the boy and barrow, followed him.

Easton watched them cautiously, out of sight, admiring the skill and simplicity of Neil's disguise, made ten times more natural by the accompanying urchin, who for his part, seemed to take it all quite placidly, and then he turned homeward.

I wish I'd gone under those sacks, all the same, he thought, but it wouldn't have been fair to ask Neil to push me. What a ripper he is!

CHAPTER XVIII.

Easton returned to his rooms and waited anxiously for news of Neil, but for a long time he waited in vain. Indeed, the afternoon was already drawing to a close and he was beginning to fear that some accident had happened to Violet's father, when his man entered, informing him that a boy had arrived with a note, which required immediate attention.

The Major did not stay for the boy to be shown in, but hurried to the hall, where he quickly recognized the youthful and Jewish guardian of the barrow with which Neil had gone off.

The boy examined the Major carefully, evidently acting under instructions, before handing over the note he bore, and then he stood at ease, obviously making a characteristically national valuation of the objects the hall contained, while Easton read.

Meet me at the Lyon's Tea Shop by Portland Road Underground Station, as soon as you like, the note ran, scribbled hastily in pencil on a scrap of paper and given this youngster a shilling I have promised him.—N.

The Major crumpled the paper up. Thank goodness, here's something to do at last, he thought. I wonder what has happened.

Here you are, boy, he continued, producing a shilling from his pocket. You were promised a shilling, weren't you?

The boy's long Eastern eyes blinked. Eightpence, he said quickly, without turning a hair.

The Major looked at him, and then laughed. You young scoundrel, I'll bet you weren't, he said. However, here you are. Now cut away and run. You won't spend the money rashly that's certain, whatever else you may do.

He waited till the youth had descended to the street and wheeled his barrow away, whistling blithely, and then he followed him and, hailing a cab, directed the driver to proceed to the address Neil had given.

He found the latter seated in the tea-room smoking a cigarette, a cup of coffee in front of him and a little knot of waitresses anxiously discussing his singularly sooty appearance.

Their discussion did not end, though their curiosity was visibly increased, when the Major strode towards Neil eagerly and taking a seat at his table entered into close conversation with him.

However, the two men took little notice of the stir their presence caused among the neat, black-garbed damsels.

Did you follow our friend? asked Easton quickly. I got your note, of course, and came straight on as quickly as I could.

Neil nodded. You haven't taken long he said.

It was easy enough this time, though the old barrow had to buzz a bit once or twice. However, that Jew boy stuck to me nobly and we got through all right. Our friend did not spot us, and never suspected he was being followed. I have got him marked down near by here, and this seemed the best place to meet you.

There is no danger that he has got away while you waited for me?

None. I telephoned to the office for my man—fortunately there was a public telephone office just opposite—and he is watching the place now. But I shouldn't much care if he has slipped us now, for I believe we have run our fox to earth, Major Easton.

May you be right, said Easton heartily. Where is he? he asked.

GIFT OF 72 AIRSHIPS

That Number Presented to French Government by Private Parties Paris, France.—Some months ago a number of newspaper proprietors and private people subscribed for a present to the French nation in the form of aeroplanes.

An official letter published by the National Committee, which received subscriptions and had the aeroplanes built, was published recently.

Seventy-two aeroplanes, all fitted with the latest military requirements, were the fruits of the subscription. The Journal presented three monoplanes, each of which carries two passengers; the Petit Parisien presented three, and most of the other newspapers in Paris presented one or more.

STRENGTH

Without Overloading the Stomach

The business man, especially, needs food in the morning that will not overload the stomach but give mental vigor for the day.

"Much depends on the start a man sets each day, as to how he may expect to accomplish the work on hand. He can't be alert, with a heavy, fried-meat-and-potatoes breakfast requiring a lot of vital energy in digestion."

A Western business man tried to find some food combination that would not overload the stomach in the morning, but that would produce energy.

He writes: "For years I was unable to find a breakfast food that had nutrition enough to sustain a business man without overloading his stomach, causing indigestion and kindred ailments."

"Being a very busy and also a very nervous man, I decided to give up breakfast altogether. But luckily I was induced to try Grape Nuts."

"Since that morning I have been a new man; can work without tiring, my head is clear and my nerves strong and quiet."

I find four teaspoonsful of Grape Nuts with one of sugar and a small quantity of cold milk is delicious as the cereal part of the morning meal, and invigorates me for the day's business."

BUREAU OF BRAINS

Business Posts for Men From British Universities

London, England.—A bureau of brains, or as it is formerly styled a "Business Appointments Bureau," is now being formed to conduct a campaign in favor of a more bracing and vigorous life on the part of our educated young men.

M. E. Morgan, of Messrs. W. H. Smith & Son, whose article on "The Dignity of Business," was recently quoted in the Daily Mail, supports the scheme in an article in the Review of Reviews. The bureau, he points out, will bring home to educated young men the specific place in business that they are fitted to fill; it will convince business men of the necessity for fresh brains as well as fresh methods; and it will act in co-operation with existing appointments, boards and similar organizations to bring qualified applicants for business posts into touch with suitable business houses.

The bureau, contends Mr. Morgan, should have command of all the talent available from public schools and universities.

The Unexpected Happened

Mrs. Mulligatway needed a change of air. The doctor was emphatic on this point. Her husband, however, being unable to go with her, she went alone, retiring as usual to her favorite holiday haunt.

On the morning after her arrival she suddenly discovered that she had come away without her watch. Thinking, therefore, that she must have dropped it on the thick carpet in the dining-room, she forthwith wired to the maid at home:

Let me know if you find anything on the carpet in the dining-room.

In due course she received a letter in reply: "Dear Madam—I was to let you know if I found anything on the dining-room carpet. This is what I found this morning—three champagne corks, eighteen cigar ends, five cigarette ends, thirty-six burnt matches, and—"

But Mrs. Mulligatway did not read further. And when her husband returned home from the office that evening he found his faithful spouse awaiting him.

A Matter of Taste

Gloom prevailed in the domestic circle—a gloom horrible and depressing. Mr. Brown, the fact, was in a bad temper, and as Mrs. Brown knew, there was only one way of curing it.

To rouse him thoroughly, for when miserable himself, he always accused other people of being miserable. He did on this occasion.

Jane, he grumped at last, you're as dull as an old owl. I suppose because I refused to buy you that new hat.

No, sighed his wife; I wasn't thinking about it. As a matter of fact, I have been turning out some old letters and—oh, it's nothing of importance. Only a bit of the blues.

What letters?

Love-letters! Some I wrote to you, I suppose. No, said his wife calmly. Some I received before I met you. It's of no consequence. None at all. How is your child?

Irene is a highly valued cook in a north side family. She is not creditable nor given to hysterics. She impresses one as being calm and serene. But on her way to work she momentarily lost all such qualities.

Suddenly she rushed into the middle of the street screaming and shrieking. She threw her coat from her and continued to scream.

She must be crazy! exclaimed a woman who came out of her house.

She's having a fit, said another. But neither was right. The cause of the commotion was a mouse which had crawled into Irene's coat pocket for a little snooze.

Relative of High Prussian Official in Sore Trouble

Berlin, Germany.—The Berliner Tageblatt confirms a report that a Prussian officer, a relative of one of the highest officers in the Prussian army, has been arrested on suspicion of high treason, presumably in the form of espionage.

He was arrested on February 3 at the instance of the Imperial department of public prosecutions at Leipzig. He was imprisoned in Berlin, but released on Friday on bail, said to amount to seven hundred thousand marks. During his five days of arrest the prisoner was allowed to receive his wife daily. The utmost secrecy is observed with regard to the nature of the charge.

As a young woman attired in a neat blue suit entered a street car a man with his head buried in a newspaper, arose and offered his seat. With a curt nod the young woman accepted, and as soon as she had composed herself she became interested in the contents of her shopping bag. In spite of his apparent abstraction, the man with the newspaper watched her for a moment. Then speaking hurriedly he said:

I beg your pardon, what is it?—what did you say?

The young woman lifted her eyes, and seeing that she was addressed, answered coolly: I said nothing, sir.

Beg pardon, beg pardon, was the absent-minded answer, I thought you said thank you!

Good friend, if fate should but bestow Upon, we'll say, a man like you, The problems I have mentioned, oh! What would you do? What would you do?

That Fellow Feeling

Outside a busy fishmonger's stood a large ice cart. The driver was inside the shop, but on a block of ice sat a small boy, with comfort writ large upon his face.

"Are gitoutofit!" yelled he man, all in one word, as he suddenly appeared from the shop.

Then the small boy lifted his face, now charged with sadness.

"Was you ever a boy?" he asked ungrammatically.

"Of course I was, came the reply, but—"

"And did you ever stop away from school?"

"Yes—"

"And when you got home did yer farrer ever get ba belt and—"

"Then it dawned on the big and burly ice-man."

"You stop just where you are, my little man, he said genially. I quite understand."

"With so thorough a preparation at hand as Miller's Worm Powders the mother who allows her children to suffer from the ravages of worms is surely and culpably careless. A child subjected to the attacks of worms is always unhealthy and will be stunted in its growth. It is a merciful act to rid it of these destructive parasites, especially when it can be done without difficulty."

The Tempter

If you will marry me, said the ardent suitor, you shall have your own automobile.

"How dare you!" she hissed. You know I am advocating votes for women, and insist on walking."

"Waiter—Have you tried our turtle soup, sir?"

"Dinner—Yes, I have tried it and my decision is that the turtle proved an alibi."

DRUGGED AND ROBBED IN PARIS

Meets Stranger Who Volunteers to Show Him Sights of the City
Paris, France. — A curious story was told to the Paris police by a young Canadian, James Huntly, or Huntly, of Winnipeg.

Mr. Huntly is a real estate agent by profession. After a short stay in London he arrived, he said, at the Gare St. Lazare, in Paris, on his way to Nice. He intended to remain only one day here. He says that he put his luggage in the cloakroom at the station, got a check for it and went for a stroll.

Opposite Cook's, on the Place de l'Opera, he was accosted by a guide, who offered to show him Paris. He agreed, and got into a taxicab with the man. After showing him several points of interest the guide proposed to show him the Apache quarter, and drove with him to a house in a slum. He does not know where it was.

The guide took him into a room on the first floor furnished with a few chairs, a table and a cupboard—nothing else. The $200 guide opened the cupboard and offered Mr. Huntly a drink which he accepted.

As soon as he had emptied his glass he fell asleep and knows nothing of what happened to him till he woke up late in the afternoon on a chair in the Madeleine Church. His pocketbook had disappeared. There were, he says, twenty ten-dollar bills in it, several papers and the check for his trunk. The trunk had been taken away from the cloakroom, presumably by the thief.

The charity organization of the British Embassy sent Mr. Huntly back to London and he will be repatriated.

Keeping Pace With It

I say, can you tell me how far it is to the nearest town?

The rustic looked at the hot and optore traveller, scratched his head thoughtfully, and then replied:

Oh, about three miles, I should think.

And the traveller continued his journey with renewed energy.

An hour or so later he met another rustic to whom he repeated his question, hoping to hear now that he was near his journey's end. But instead, after the subject had been carefully considered, he was told that he was exactly three miles away.

With a sigh, therefore, he set out once more and walked on and on; then on and on again, until at last he met yet another rustic, who cheered him with this consolation:

Three miles from the top of that hill will see you there.

Good! replied the pedestrian. If I hurry a bit, I shall be able to hold my own against it.

THE SECRET OF GIRLISH BEAUTY

The Blood Must be Kept Rich and Pure, and the Nerves Properly Nourished.

Every parent of a growing girl and every young woman who looks after herself, should be constantly on the watch for symptoms of impoverished blood. Girls in their teens should not be pale, languid and constantly fatigued. Nature intended them to be bright, energetic and active. The happiness of a lifetime depends upon giving the blood the help it needs at this time, when girls are too frequently allowed to overstudy, overwork or suffer from lack of exercise.

The symptoms of impoverished blood are unmistakable. They are languidness, pale, sallow complexion, shortness of breath, violent palpitation of the heart, particularly on going up stairs, poor appetite, dizziness and headaches, and a tendency to faint. These symptoms of course are not all found in every case, but the more the victim has of them the greater progress has the trouble made and the more imperative is the necessity to act at once before it becomes too late.

Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which bring back the glow of health and energy to every part of the body. The case of Miss Jeanie Fraser, Hamilton, Ont., offers proof of this. She says: "For about eighteen months I was in a very bad state of health and thoroughly run down. I had no appetite and suffered from most of the symptoms of anemia. I went to a local doctor and received treatment from him for three months, and although I took bottle after bottle of medicine I was steadily growing worse, and I got so down-hearted and depressed that I felt I would never get better. At this time I read the case of a young lady whose symptoms were similar to my own, who had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to try them. By the time I had used three boxes my appetite had improved and I was feeling more encouraged. I continued the use of the Pills for a time longer and my health was fully restored."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

John, do you practice regularly on the piano while I am away at business?

Yes, father, replied the boy.

Every day?

Yes, father.

How long did you practice today?

Three hours.

And how long yesterday?

Two and a half hours.

Well, I am glad to hear that you're so regular.

Yes, father.

And the next time you practice be sure and unlock the piano. Here is the key. I looked the instrument last week and I have been carrying the key in my pocket ever since.

COCKSHUTT DRILLS

ARE OF PROVED SUPERIORITY

SPARKLING WATER, cool and sweet, refreshes the farmer who builds a

Concrete Well or Tank

THE FARMER, above all others, appreciates good water. He drinks more water than the city man. The city-dweller is dependent upon the public water-supply for the purity of his water, while the farmer can have his own private source of water, and thus be sure that it is pure and healthful.

MAN hasn't found a better drink than cool water, properly collected and stored. But in order to keep water fresh and pure, a tank or well casing that will keep out every possible impurity must be used.

CONCRETE IS THE IDEAL MATERIAL FOR TANKS AND WELL-CASINGS.

It is absolutely water-tight, protecting your water from seepage of all kinds. It cannot rot or crumble. It is easily cleaned inside. Time and water, instead of causing it to decay, actually make it stronger.

OUR Farmers' Information Department will help you to decide how to build anything, from a porch to a silo. The service is free—you don't even have to promise to build. When in doubt ask the Information Department.

Victor and Vanquished

Past stall after stall went the rich merchant, followed by a footman in smart livery. It was the annual village bazaar, and the rich man had been roped in by force of circumstances.

Ah, Mr. Fitzbrendon, said a really sweet and charming lady at one of the stalls, and what are you going to buy? Dear old-auntie and I are running this table, and we have home-made cakes, aprons, penwipers, and—

Yes, said F., and I'll buy just one of each. But do you sell kisses at your stall?

Oh, certainly! came the ready reply. One guinea, each.

Right! replied the autocrat. Then I'll take a couple—and good measure please.

Aunt, remarked the fair and dainty damsel, forward, please. Two kisses for this gentleman!

For a moment the man of means and money was nonplussed, but only for a moment. Then he turned to his servant:

James, he said coolly, just take this purchase, please.

A Medical Need Supplied.—When a medicine is found that not only acts upon the stomach, but is so composed that certain ingredients of it pass unaltered through the stomach to find action in the bowels, then there is available a purgative and a cleanser of great effectiveness. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are of this character and are the best of all pills. During the years that they have been in use they have established themselves as no other pill has done.

The case had reached a critical stage and even the judge seemed to awaken to a live interest in the proceedings, for the most important witness was about to be cross-examined.

So you are the lady's maid? began the relentless barrister.

Yes, sir.

And where were you at 7 o'clock on the evening in question?

I was in my lady's room, sir.

For what purpose?

I was dressing my lady's hair, sir.

The barrister leaned forward and spoke very slowly and impressively.

Now think, he said, I want you to be very careful in answering this question: Was or was not your mistress in the room at the time?

His Opinion of Them

An heirloom, explained the farmer, is something that has been handed down from father to son and in some cases is greatly prized.

I'd prize these heirlooms I'm wearing, remarked the youngster, a good deal more if they wasn't so long in the legs.

Waiting for an Answer

We asked some months ago whether paper collars are still worn. No one vouchsafed to answer. It is our impression that the celluloid drove out the paper. We well remember the paper collar and the paper dicky. Cool Burgess used to sing of Hildebrand Montrose:

He parts his hair with extreme care And chalks his paper collars.

But the paper collar, once worn, was an accomplished fact, something to be forgotten; while the celluloid like the enamelled steel collar of the civil war period can be cleaned.

The steel collar was at regular intervals refreshed by use of a tooth brush.

He had obtained a place in an estate agent's office and was doing everything he could for the interests of his employers.

The other evening he was at a social gathering and was asked to sing. He responded with Home Sweet Home. His friends were surprised at the selection, but he was heartily applauded.

Step forward, he said: I am glad you like Home Sweet Home, and let me say that the company I represent is selling homes on terms to suit everybody within 40 minutes' ride of the city.

Everybody ought to have a home. If you don't want to live in one of these houses yourself, it's the chance of your life for an investment.

BELGIANS SCARED BY GERMANY

What is Considered Grave Situation is Discussed by Her Statesmen in Secret

Brussels, Germany.—The Belgian chamber of deputies has discussed at a secret sitting vital questions of national defense.

When it was proposed that a secret sitting should be held, several members announced that they would not maintain secrecy, and tumultuous scenes occurred. Baron de Broqueville, the premier and war minister, according to the ministerial organ, Le Patriote, stated: The minister for foreign affairs and myself are on a volcano. If you do not promise to keep our communications secret we shall be compelled to withhold them.

Guarantees that secrecy would be observed were obtained and the secret sitting was held. Stringent precautions were taken and parliamentary journalists were forbidden access even to rooms adjacent to the chamber.

It is clear that the premier has been greatly impressed by the German military measures at Elsenborn and other places on the Belgian frontier. At Elsenborn there is the vast maneuvering camp of the Coblenz army corps. From Aix-la-Chapelle a military railway of great strategic importance runs south and almost parallel with the Belgian frontier. At Welmes a branch line runs west to Malmédy, close to the Belgian frontier.

A new line connects Malmédy with the Belgian frontier town of Stavelot, and the railways to Brussels and Liege.

At the public sitting of the chamber Baron de Broqueville said that the debate might be decisive regarding the future of Berlin. Certain foreign powers, he stated, would welcome an increase in the Belgian army. Although there is some opposition, it is virtually certain that an increase will be voted.

According to the Derniere Heure, the premier said the international situation was greatly disturbed, that large military forces were massed to the south and east of Belgium, and that it behooved the country to be in a position to see that the integrity of her territory was respected.

COMIC PAPERS GAVE BOGUS BISHOP AWAY

Posed as Oriental Prelate at Meetings of a Fraudulent Bank

Paris, France.—To impress the shareholders of the Auxilium Internationale, a banking concern with headquarters in the Rue Blanche, the directors dressed up a butler in a purple robe, gave him an imposing amethyst ring to wear and invested him with the title of bishop of Antioch. During the meeting the bishop's episcopal staff was left in a prominent place in the cloakroom.

As a matter of fact, the bishop was hired to wear his clothes at so much per meeting. For a time he acted the part with due solemnity, but at the close of one of the gatherings an inquisitive shareholder went to the table to consult the report which the bishop had been reading during the proceedings. He was surprised to find that the bulky portfolio contained a number of very Parisian comic journals. He made inquiries and a police investigation followed.

The founder of the bank has been arrested and his partner is now in flight.

SANOL AND SANOL'S ANTI-DIABETES EFFECT WONDERFUL CURE

Below is given a copy of a letter from a prominent Winnipeg Druggist. This is but typical of the many we receive, advising of the great demand for SANOL and SANOL'S ANTI-DIABETES, and the many cures these sterling remedies effect.

The Sanol Manufacturing Co., Winnipeg.

Dear Sirs—

In regard to the sale of SANOL and SANOL'S ANTI-DIABETES I might say I have been handling the goods for about three months. I was obliged to put in SANOL'S ANTI-DIABETES to supply one of my customers, who now is completely cured and whom I believe, has sent a testimonial to your office. Another customer ordered SANOL and I was obliged to stock it. This gentleman was so well satisfied that he has sent bottles to his friends. Up to this time I had never really taken much interest in the preparations, but when customers after customers would come in and tell us about what SANOL had done for them I came to the conclusion it would be worth my while getting behind SANOL and recommending it to my customers. This I have done, and I have heard nothing but words of praise for SANOL, and recommending it to my customers. This I have done, and I have heard nothing but words of praise for SANOL and SANOL'S ANTI-DIABETES. I am,

Yours truly,

The Observer

The Town Council is now endeavoring to make arrangements with the C.P.R. whereby a 5-acre plot of ground can be obtained for a village park. If this can be carried through work will be started immediately the ground is in condition to break and summer-fallow at least along one edge of the plot in order to get the ground in proper condition to plant trees the following season. It is their intention, also, of arranging for a race track, amphitheater, and all other attributes necessary for an up-to-date park. Last week a representative of the C.P.R. was here sizing up the situation and getting things in readiness to turn the small plot, adjacent the depot, into a veritable fairyland of flowers this summer. All of these plans, combined with the work the members of the Women's Institute intend doing towards beautifying the town, if carried out, will make Vulcan one of the most beautiful towns in Southern Alberta. The question as to the success of these undertakings rests in a great measure with every property owner in town. Let's show our appreciation of the endeavors of these workers by giving them every assistance possible.

Ore samples tested by competent analysts at the assaying laboratory of the University of Alberta in Edmonton prove that the mineral wealth of the province has as yet only been vaguely surmised. Some of the ore runs high in gold, silver and copper, while other pieces show iron and lead. Prospectors, who have tramped over the foothills of the Canadian Rockies, predict that the next big "rush" on the north American continent will be into north western Alberta and eastern British Columbia, adding that the vast hinterland also will be a scene of activity with the introduction of transportation lines. More than a dozen exploration companies are boring for oil, natural gas and asphaltum in districts north of Edmonton and as the tests are highly satisfactory they will continue development work throughout the season.

Sunday School

Reid Hill, March 18.—Sunday school is being held in the Reid Hill school house every Sunday at 2 o'clock.

W. T. Johnson will start threshing his last year's crop of flax in a few days.

J. Warner was a Reid Hill visitor last week.

J. F. Shopfner will return from Calgary to live on his farm here.

West Mires is overhauling his engine for spring work. 2000 acres look big to him.

Sunny Glen is to have its last dance on Friday, the 14th.

One of the old pioneers, A. G. Smith, is on his way back from Idaho where he has been spending the past two years. He will live with his son, G. H. Smith.

The captain of the Reid Hill ball team says all he needs now to play ball is players. He has the outfit from three years ago.

Thos. Baird is now the proud possessor of a family of 11 of the finest little Rhode Island chicks imaginable. Every egg of the eleven placed in the sitting hatched. This is certainly a remarkable record especially so when one considers the time of the year. Probably the fact that they are of pure blood stock contributed materially to the result.

Measrs James O'Toole and Lee Christianson appeared in court on the 10th and 12th respectively to answer to the charge of having unlawfully ridden horseback up and down the sidewalk in front of the Imperial hotel. James O'Toole was fined $15.00 and costs, Lee Christianson $10.00 and costs. The difference in the two fines is explained by the fact that this appears to be O'Toole's second offence of like nature. Costs of the court were $4.50.

AGED PEOPLE

cannot properly masticate solid foods and digestion is often upset—they do not receive the needed nourishment to make strength and preserve health, but if aged people everywhere could only realize the strength-sustaining nourishment in Scott's Emulsion, they would take it after every meal.

It possesses the nourishing elements of cod liver oil, the vital powers of the hypophosphites of lime and soda and the curative qualities of glycerine, all perfectly combined that nature immediately appropriates them to create strength—nourish the organs and build the body. It relieves rheumatism and ailments due to declining years. It adds to the span of life.

All Out of Town
Full of hope and energy, the young reporter was sent to the suburbs to write an account of a fire that was alleged to be raging there.

As a matter of fact the fire was so small that it had been put out in three and a quarter minutes, and the fire brigade had gone home long ago.

Still, the reporter was as persevering as he was inexperienced, so he approached the house cheerily and knocked upon the door.

Mr. Yaights in? he asked hopefully of the handmaiden who answered his summons.

No, came the reply; he's out.

Mrs. Yaights?

No, she's out also.

Well, said the cub reporter, we were informed that you had a fire here, and I've come to report—

Oh, that's out too! snapped the maid, as she gently closed the door.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia.

In the sixth grade at Irving school the teacher was questioning a boy about Napoleon's disastrous invasion of Russia and the subsequent retreat from Moscow.

What did the French do then? she asked.

They ran away, said the boy.

Yes, that is what they did, said the teacher, but run away is hardly the correct phrase to use. What should you have said.

They beat it! he exclaimed, proudly.

ARE GROWING IN FAVOR EVERY DAY

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS PROVING THEIR VALUE AS A FAMILY MEDICINE

Quebec Man Tells How They Helped Him and Cured His Nephew of Kidney Disease.

South Ham, Wolfe Co., Que. (Special).—There is fresh proof every day that as a family medicine Dodd's Kidney Pills are growing in favor with the people of Quebec. Just to quote an example, Amable Pinard of this place says, in an interview:

"Dodd's Kidney Pills helped my rheumatism, backache, gravel, and heart disease, from which I suffered for twenty years.

"They have not yet cured me completely, but they did completely cure my nephew, who suffered from kidney disease."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure kidney disease. They will complete Amable Pinard's cure, because all the diseases mentioned are the results of kidney disease. They cured the young man's kidney disease quickly, because it was taken in its early stages. Amable Pinard's troubles are of twenty years' standing and take a longer treatment.

The moral is, that if you cure your kidney disease early with Dodd's Kidney Pills, you will never be troubled with rheumatism, gravel, and other diseases that are caused by sick kidneys failing to do their work.

SWINDLER'S SYNDICATE OPERATED FOR YEARS

Numbered Its Hundreds of Victims Throughout Many Countries of Europe

Madrid, Spain.—Fifteen members of a wealthy syndicate of swindlers, having their headquarters in Madrid, have been arrested, and others are now being sought for.

This syndicate has victimized hundreds of persons in other countries in various ways. It perpetrated a Spanish prisoner's hoax with great success, and also the "treasure, swindlers whereby credulous individuals were induced to invest money in an alleged secret enterprise for recovering buried gold and valuable plate.

According to the police the leader of the syndicate was a man who possesses three splendid houses in Madrid, and is constructing a fourth. These houses have many secret doors and corridors, and underground outlets, so that the occupants elude the police.

The syndicate operated for eight years and received hundreds of telegrams from victims announcing that they were coming to Madrid. These telegrams were all sent to false addresses, and when the victims arrived they found that nothing was known of the treasure scheme at the address given them.

Branches of the syndicate operated at Bilbao, Saragossa, Seville and other Spanish towns.

No Means of Escape

They were on parade when the Irish drill-sergeant stopped dead in front of the newest recruit and eyed him steadily from top to toe before he burst out:

Arrah! an' here's a nice state of affairs. How dare ye come here and stand before a decent man like me self covered in dust from head to foot? Answer me when I speak to ye.

With knocking knees, the now thoroughly wretched recruit endeavored to squeeze in a few well-chosen words of explanation, but his attempts were rudely overborne by a further torrent of words from the sergeant, who fairly bellowed:

Ye would answer me, would ye? Speak at ye, perill! Now tell me, ye spalpeen, what have ye been doin' to ye nice new uniform?

Again the bewildered recruit opened a capacious mouth as a preliminary to speech, but the violent voice of the superior broke in once again.

Take care, he shouted. Oi can hear ye. If ye answer me when I speak to ye, I'll have ye arrested for insolence. An' if ye don't answer when I speak to ye, I'll send ye to the guard room for disobedience.

YOUR BABY'S SKIN

Is the most delicate fabric in the world. You may cause it permanent harm by using poisonous mineral ointments for the little rashes and eruptions that every baby suffers from occasionally. Don't take any chances. Use Zam-Buk, the baby's best balm.

Zam-Buk is made from fine herbal extracts, and is free from any harmful poisonous coloring matter. Like the grasses and the flowers, nature has colored it green. It is nature's own healer!

Most ointments and salves have, as their foundation, various animal oils and fats. Zam-Buk does not contain one atom of animal substance. Most ointments and salves are too coarse to be absorbed by the tender delicate skin of a baby, and remain on the skin an irritating mass. Just put a little Zam-Buk on baby's skin, and see how soon it is absorbed, showing conclusively that the pores of the skin are greedy for it.

Use nothing but Zam-Buk for baby's skin troubles and wash with Zam-Buk Soap.

Zam-Buk should also be used for cuts, burns, scalds, eczema, piles, ulcers, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes and limitations.

Reduced in Flesh

Sleepless Nights

Kidney Disease and Gravel Caused Keenest Suffering—Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. W. Smith.

That diseases of the kidneys cause the greatest suffering is well known, and when stone or gravel is formed in the bladder the torture is almost beyond human endurance.

The disease should never be allowed to reach this dangerous stage. Pains in the small of the back, pain or smarting when passing water, frequent urination, loss of flesh and weight tell of the need of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to regulate and invigorate the kidneys and restore these organs to health.

Mr. W. Smith, Port Dalhousie, Ont., writes:—"For some years I was afflicted with kidney disease and gravel in its most severe form, having often a stoppage of water, accompanied by the most dreadful agony. As the disease wore on me I became reduced in flesh and passed sleepless nights. No doctor was able to do much for me, and I used many medicines without obtaining more than temporary relief. My attention was directed to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and by using this treatment the disease was eradicated from my system in less than six months. I have gained in weight, sleep well, and feel better than I have for twenty years."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c. a box, all dealers, or F. Mansson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Sheer Force of Habit

Teased into it, Boole had accompanied his wife on an excursion to the realms of bargains, and in the enormous building, with its many departments, had become separated from his better half.

For an hour at least he remained lounging impatiently at the junction of many ways, where lifts, stairs, and passages met, and then, tired and angry he approached an irreproachable shopwalker.

Sir, he said to the frock-coated and suave attendant in tones of righteous indignation, I've lost my wife.

Back came the reply, with stunning force:

Third floor and over the bridge for the mourning department.

But Boole waited on.

Not True to Life

The son of a man who had been a great philanthropist welcomed a visitor to his office. The talk turned on the career of the father of the young man.

It was a great blow to everybody, my father's death, lamented the youth. By the way, here's the last portrait painted of him.

He led the visitor to where hung on the wall a large portrait of the dead philanthropist depicting him as standing erect with his right hand in his pocket.

A fine piece of work, said the visitor grimly, but it's not true to life. Nobody ever saw your father with his hand in his own pocket.

Do you think it right to rob Peter to pay Paul?

If I happen to be Paul I do.

PATRIOTISM EVOKED BY STIRRING PLAY

Its Author Embraced by Men and Women of an Emotional Audience

Paris, France.—There was a great scene after the first performance of the new play "Servit," by M. Henri Lavendan, at the Theatre Sarah Bernhardt, M. Guity, the famous actor, snatched up the play while the Comedie Francaise was doubting whether it could produce it. The black-headed author of the play was embraced by men and women alike after the performance and tears were running down many cheeks.

"Servit" gives violent expression to the new spirit of patriotic fervor that has been growing in France for several years, especially in the younger generation, and which revealed itself dramatically at the time of the Agadir incident. It shows in the form of a parable, the overcoming of the antimilitarism which was rife in France a few years ago by love of la patrie.

The two chief characters—or rather types, for they are merely mouthpieces of opposing sentiment—are an old colonel, played by M. Guity, and his son. The colonel, on his forced retirement under the age limit, felt that he must still serve his country.

He was so devoted that he even sought an unpleasant way of showing it and became a spy. In that capacity he discovered that a very powerful explosive has been invented by his son.

The son is a pacifist. He hates war and tells his men that they ought not to fight unless their conscience approves the cause. He uses all the humanitarian arguments that used to be heard in France, and is so carried away by his enthusiasm that he is determined to make use of his invention. He has proved its force by blowing up an island off the coast of Brittany.

Here the piece comes near to being ridiculous. Any power which possessed the secret explosive could wipe another power off the map, but he will not give even his own country the chance. He will destroy the formula and throw the explosive into the sea.

In this he is checked by his father's knowledge. The old colonel gives the secret to the war office, and on that very day war is declared.

There is a scene of angry recrimination between father and son. The mother intervenes and turns the scale, she has been on the boy's side, but the news that another son has been killed in Morocco hits her with a wild meaning for revenge. The piece ends amid frenzied applause with the pacifist rushing off to fight.

'Tis a Marvellous Thing.—When the cures effected by Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil are considered, the speedy and permanent relief it has brought to the suffering wherever it has been used, it must be regarded as a marvellous thing that so potent a medicine should result from the six ingredients which enter into its composition. A trial will convince the most skeptical of its healing virtues.

WOMEN WAR ON EXTRAVAGANCE

Stockings Costing $240 a Pair Purchased by Paris Women

Paris, France.—Luxury in woman's dress has reached such a pitch in Paris that society women are now proposing to organize a simplicity campaign.

It is not so much the prices paid for the dresses themselves as the money asked and paid for accessories which are exceeding the powers of all but the deepest purses. The extravagance in stockings has grown in inverse ratio to the thickness of the material.

A shop near the Opera sells stockings at $2 a pair at the cheapest. An inquiry for the most expensive produced some at $200 and $240 a pair, made of Chantilly lace, Mechline lace or tissue of gold.

In the Rue de la Paix a fashionable purveyor of white underwear stated that he had no trousseaux under $100, and that $10 and $20 were the prices for cheap nightdresses. Another shop of the same kind making a specialty of corsets has quite cheap ones at $15 and a little better quality at $20; but of course, said the shopkeeper, when a lady wants a really fashionable corset she has to pay for it.

Up to Date

Of course you know the story of the Irishman who was painting a fence and who worked for all he was worth in order that he might get his job finished before the paint gave out.

It was one of those jokes our grandmothers laughed at before our grandfathers bought razors.

The hero again, is an Irishman, but this time not a painter. Oh, no, a chauffeur driving his master home from the country late one evening.

The nearer the car approached the town the faster it went until, when about ten miles out, it was travelling at something like fifty miles an hour.

Steady, man, steady! cried the master to his servant. If you go on like this we shall get held up by the police.

But the Irishman set his lips firmly, made the car go faster still, then hissed:

We're still nine miles from home, sir, and I've only enough petrol for three. If we hurry we may just do it.

Well Put

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish at one of her beautiful dinners in New York, said of a woman whose daughters had all married well:

A woman like that hates to lose her daughters—and yet—well, I suppose her feelings are pretty well expressed by the homely story of the washer-woman.

A washer-woman whose five girls had married well was left all alone with her old husband, but she said philosophically about the girls' loss:

I misses 'em and I wants 'em; but golly, I misses 'em more'n I wants 'em.

Poetry is delightful. But poets are so very poorly paid. I know a millionaire who has a beautiful, golden haired stenographer. The girl said to her employer the other day:

Dear me, said the millionaire. Then you will have to leave us, eh?

No, sir, she replied, I shall not leave you. But I shall need more pay.

WILSON TAKES OATH

BRILLIANT SCENE MARKS THE INAUGURATION CEREMONY

New President of the United States, in his inaugural address, made a plea to all honest, patriotic men to aid him in the guidance of good government.

Washington.—Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, was inaugurated March 4 as President of the United States. Thomas Marshall, of Indiana, as Vice President; Democracy, the vehicle of their destiny. It was an intensely human precedent breaking inauguration.

With members of his chosen cabinet surrounding him, the justices of the Supreme Court before him, his wife and daughters dancing for joy on the platform below, and William Taft, ex-President at his side, the new President shouted a summons to all honest patriotic, forward looking men, to aid him, extending the promise that he would not fail them in the guidance of their government.

While the President's concluding inaugural words were tossing in tumultuous waves of applause, the retiring President clasped his hand and enlisted as a patriot in the ranks of private citizenship.

Mr. President, said Mr. Taft, his face beaming with a smile, I wish you a successful administration and the carrying out of your aims. We will all be behind you.

Thank you, said President Wilson, as he turned to shake the hand of his Secretary of State, William Jennings Bryan. There they stood, Taft, standard bearer of a vanquished party after sixteen years of power; Bryan, persistent plodder of progressive Democracy, thrice defeated, accepting a commission from a new chief, and Wilson the man of the hour, victorious, mustering as he expressed it, not the forces of the party but the forces of humanity.

It was a political picture far beyond imaginings of a few years gone by, a setting that stirred the souls of the assembled hosts, whose cheers at the scene seemed actually to reverberate from the distant Virginia hills.

The military and civic pageant that followed this climax of the day was more than five hours in passing. Leaving Capital Hill at two o'clock in the afternoon, the marching thousands had not doffed their colors to the President in the hour of honor until long after darkness had followed. President Wilson stood for more than an hour under the glare of myriads of brilliant electric lights as he presided over the thousands of long lines among them the hostesses of Princeton, as they passed him, shouted a hearty greeting that he never can forget.

Ceremonies in the senate chamber which marked the dying of the sixty-second and the vitalizing of the new sixty-third congress, embracing the inauguration of Vice President Marshall, and the swearing in of the senators-elect, were never more impressive. Though delayed somewhat by the course of legislation, necessitating turning back half an hour the hands of the clock, the interest was tense. The procession into the chamber of the members of the House of Representatives, ambassadors and ministers of foreign countries in all their brilliant regalia, chief justice and justices of the supreme court in their sombre robes, the President-elect and President Taft, side by side, escorted by the members of the congressional inaugural committee was an awe inspiring spectacle.

JOURNALISTS COMING

Some Doubt in Britain as to Canadian Meeting

London.—Regarding the proposed meeting of the Institute of British Journalists in Canada next September, enquiries show that while it is scheme hung fire for some time it is now likely that a successful gathering will result.

The present idea is to have two parties, one of those who can stay only a week of the actual sessions of the institute and the other for the more fortunate scribes who have leisure to take an extended holiday. The institute claims that the gathering ought to include the rank and file of members so that Canada may benefit from the visit of those who will actually write about it on their return home. Frankly though there are plenty of journalists who are wondering for the rank and file members during the trip. Is it to go to another free feed at Canada's expense and if not is the trip to be confined to those members of the institute who have a little money and even more leisure.

For All Red News Service

London.—The Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London are about to institute inquiries concerning the possibility of establishing a wholly British news service from England to Canada. The idea being the provision of such a service might stamp out fantastical inventions regarding royalty and British institutions generally which it is said are repeated from America into the smaller Canadian newspapers.

New Pointer for Travellers

Toronto.—Railways are required to protect their passengers from the elements. Nine judges have voiced this opinion in the case brought by G. H. Morrison against the Pere Marquette Railway. While awaiting a delayed train, Morrison contracted a bad cold at Marquette, Ont., where fire had burned the station in July, 1911. Serious illness followed the exposure and he sued for damages. He was awarded $500. The appellate division dismissed the company's appeal.

New Zealand's Wheat Crop

Sydney, N.S.W.—The acting statistician of New South Wales places the forthcoming crop of wheat at 24,250,000 bushels. This is about 1,000,000 above the estimate of last year, but 700,000 below the final return of that crop. Hon. J. S. McGowan, premier of the state, however, anticipates a considerable increase on this estimate.

BUTTER TRADE TO UNITED KINGDOM

Interesting Figures In Report from the Canadian Commissioner

Ottawa.—The butter trade of the United Kingdom is made the subject of a highly interesting report to the trade and commerce department from W. F. Egan, Canadian trade commissioner at Manchester, England. Mr. Egan presents some facts which will prove rather surprising to most Canadians.

The movements of butter in the world's market are at the present time a most interesting study, says a quotation from the report. We would not have expected a few short years ago to find New Zealand butter being shipped in large quantities to Vancouver to be used in large towns of the west, or colonial butter to Montreal, or shipping cream to the United States, or Holland, or Denmark and Finland shipping butter and cream to Germany. Yet, these are commonplace of the butter trade in the year, 1912.

The increased importation of continental butter by Germany will in the general opinion of the trade here, Mr. Egan says, make great changes in the sources of supply, and a much reduced supply will consequently bring higher prices in the near future. It is hoped that Eastern Canada will once more take up the butter proposition as an export article and the opportunity is here to secure a permanent market at high prices.

BALKANS AND TURKEY

Allied Governments Have Given Porte But Formal Word as to Mediation

London.—The diplomatic wheels are turning slowly in the Near East situation. Recently the formalities of communicating Turkey's request for mediation were completed at the capital of the Balkan league and the allied governments gave an identical reply—that they must first consult with each other.

Meanwhile, although more than a month has passed since the armistice was ended, military operations are practically in abeyance and Turkey's besieged fortresses, which were to fall in a few days, still hold out. The military and economic results of this delay must be disastrous to the allies.

According to reports published at Vienna, the powers are at variance over the question of indemnity. It is said that Great Britain and France oppose the idea, while Russia favors it. It is supposed that Russia may have secretly advanced funds for war purposes to Bulgaria and therefore desires to see Bulgaria reimbursed by an indemnity.

A Belgrade despatch to the Daily Telegraph says siege guns are now in operation around Adrianople, but the heavy snowfalls prevent operations.

MEXICAN AMNESTY

All Persons Under Arms Freed Under Certain Conditions

City of Mexico.—The amnesty measure prepared by General Blanquet, military commander of the Federal district, absolving offenders of whatever kind received the approval of congress.

The measure includes all persons now under arms against the administration or in other manners forming a revolution, providing they put themselves in accord with the government within 15 days from the promulgation of decree. The measure of clemency so often offered by the Madero administration without result. It is generally believed that it will find more acceptance now backed as it is by the firm hand and warlike methods of President Huerta.

Say Women Plan Greatest Works of Revenge Yet

London.—According to the Standard, which has been giving the militant suffragettes freer access to its columns than has any other London paper, the women's past outrages are to be totally eclipsed by the new ones planned in the inner circle of the militant section.

Operations are promised that will stagger humanity.

All the great public buildings such as St. Paul's Cathedral, Westminster Abbey and the British Museum are closely watched. Mrs. Pankhurst made a speech at Cambridge, extracts from which are quoted as evidence that she has broken the undertaking on which bail was granted to her last week.

Sealing Ship Lost

St. John, Nfld.—The first accident in connection with this season's sealing was reported when the steamer Labrador was beached in a sinking condition. The crew of 140 aboard made their way to shore in safety. The vessel probably will be a total loss.

Elliott Cross Awarded to Scientist

London.—Sir William Ramsay, the scientist, has been awarded the Elliott Cross, or gold medal of the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, for discoveries in chemistry. Baron Rayleigh has received the institute medal for physical science.

GOVERNMENT TO ACT

WILL INTRODUCE MEASURES TO DEAL WITH SUFFRAGETTES

Mrs. Pankhurst, the Militant Leader, has Broken Down, but Others are Ready to Take up the Cudgels—in the Meantime, Britain gets no Rest.

London.—Mrs. Pankhurst, leader of the suffragettes has broken down completely. She has cancelled all engagements and has gone to the country for rest. This announcement was made at a suffragette meeting at Hampstead, where Mrs. Pankhurst was scheduled to speak. General Drummond took her place.

Mrs. Drummond no sooner began talking than a gang of students let loose quantities of snuff, starting everybody sneezing. A lively scuffle ensued. Chairs were broken, blows were exchanged and black eyes and bruises were numerous.

During the lull in the disorder, Mrs. Drummond advised all the municipal electors to vote against the London County Council progressive candidates as a protest against the conduct of Hon. John Burns, president of the local government board, who has denounced the suffragettes as tyrannical and their militant efforts as blackguardism.

John Burns spoke at a meeting at Islington. While guards were ejecting two die-hard male supporters of the suffragettes, Mr. Burns said that such disturbances were the result of the stuff the newspapers had published. Later in his speech he said: The press of the country is imitating the American newspapers which have so led against public men, so slandered them that few decent men are willing to go into political life in America. If the country continues, this country will end in neglect and corruption, for it will drive from public life the sensitive, kindly and respectable men who formerly sought to represent their fellow citizens.

It was announced later that Mrs. Pankhurst had gone to Paris for the rest cure. It is said that she will consult her daughter, Christabel, in the future of the militant movement in the event that she herself is committed to prison as the result of her trial at Old Bailey.

It is understood that the Government has decided to introduce two bills in Parliament at an early date as possible, dealing with the suffragettes' difficulty. The first will empower the Home Secretary to exercise the same licensing control over persons committed to prison as is now done over criminals. The suffragette prisoner adopting the hunger strike will be sent to hospital or home until his health has been restored and would then be recommended to prison. This method would be repeated until the prisoner had served the full term in which the time out of license would not be considered.

The second bill will provide a better procedure for recovering fines and damages from suffragettes convicted of attacks on property and will otherwise modify the criminal law in the desired direction.

TO GET NAVAL OFFICERS

Admiralty Will Take British Public School Cadets

London.—In order to cope with the fresh demands made upon it for supplying officers for the Dominion battleship and the new requirements of the submarine and aerial service, the admiralty has made the announcement that a limited number of cadets will in future be taken from the public schools. The official estimate of the number of lieutenants likely to be wanted during 1918 and 1920, show that after allowing the supplementary sources of supply, there will still be a deficiency. The first competitive examination will take place in June and the successful candidates will be sent to a naval battleship for a course of instruction, and will be distributed as midshipmen. In view of their greater maturity, the same subsequent careers will be open to them as officers who entered through Osborne. They will be free to volunteer for service in any one branch.

SOMETHING OF A TASK

Marriage Bill for Ontario Has Drastic Provisions

Toronto.—Dr. Godfrey has a marriage bill before the Legislature which will render subject to a fine of $500, a minister or person, who performs marriage while either of the parties is under the influence of liquor, or if he has reason to believe one of the parties is an idiot or insane. He shall also be liable to imprisonment, the period not exceeding twelve months.

The bill further provides that the issuer of the marriage license, if he has knowledge or reason to believe that either of the parties to the marriage is an idiot, insane, epileptic or imbecile shall require the applicant to leave with him a doctor's certificate to the effect that neither of the parties is deficient mentally, and if the applicant does not do so he is to refuse the license.

For Police Women

New York.—Police women would give material aid in stamping out vice in New York. Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont told the legislative committee investigating police conditions.

The appalling increase in the traffic in girls, in Mrs. Belmont's opinion, was sufficient reason that something should be done to regulate the disorderly resorts and she declared that men, no matter how worthy or upright, are not qualified to deal with delinquent girls without the help of women.

Homeseekers Coming

Toronto.—About 500 persons went out on the first homeseekers excursion for western Canada on the C.P.R. They were practically all farmers from the settled parts of Ontario and in many cases took their families with them.

A great many other persons were going west and owing to the homeseekers excursion it was found necessary to send the regular 10.20 train out in two sections. One of thirteen cars and another of eleven cars.

HOW NINNIS AND MERTZ DIED

Dr. Mawson Sends Wireless Regarding Details of Fatalities

Sydney, N.S.W.—Details of the tragic ending of Lieut. B. E. S. Ninna, of the Royal Fusiliers Regiment, and Dr. Xavier Mertz, champion ski-jumper of the world, who met death in the frozen South Polar region while members of the Australian Antarctic expedition, were told in a wireless message received here from Dr. Douglas Mawson the leader of the expedition, who also suffered great hardship.

The wireless message received from Dr. Mawson, who is now in Adelle Land, says:

On December 4, 1911, while we were exploring a new coast line, 300 miles to the southeast of our winter quarters, Lieut. Ninna, with a dog team and with almost all of our food, disappeared in an unfathomable crevasse.

Dr. Mertz and myself with an inadequate supply of provisions and with six starving dogs, then started over the plateau for our hut. Bad weather retarded our progress and we subsisted chiefly on dogs.

On January 17, 1912, Dr. Mertz died from malnutrition.

On February 7, I arrived at the hut alone, having travelled through snow and fog, and having miraculously been guided by Providence through the heavily crevassed areas.

The steamer Aurora waited at the base until the weather conditions made it no longer safe. She left a few hours before my arrival at the hut. Six men were left here by the Aurora to prosecute a search for the members of our party.

A WORTHY LABORER

Ramsay MacDonald, M.P., Broke Caste Rules in India

Madras, India.—The work of Ramsay MacDonald, now sitting here, is said to have secured interesting results, one of which is the drawing together of the various classes of Indians. On two occasions Mr. MacDonald has been entertained at dinners given by Brahmins and attended by Brahmins of various sections, non-Brahmins, Christian Indians and Mohammedans. A well-known professor here, who in this connection has been 15 years' experience in India, he had never known such a dinner being held and that he had not thought it possible.

THE MARKET REPORT

Weekly Grain Letter, Supplied by Thompson, Son & Co., Grain Merchants, Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, March 4.—Immediately following our last report prices had a further advance on higher cables, good export enquiry, and talk of reduction in the Argentine export surplus, but this advance apparently put export business out of line again and markets turned easier. Later in the week very favorable accounts of the United States winter wheat condition coupled with predictions of heavy world's supplies gave markets quite a weak turn.

Considerable liquidation must have taken place in the Chicago and Minneapolis markets as their closing figures today show a loss for the week of 13c to 24c. The Winnipeg market has been relatively stronger as prices are only 13c. down but this is mainly because trading here is of a very small volume. With a continuance of heavy world's shipments and favorable crop conditions it will be difficult to prevent prices dragging lower during the next few weeks. Trading will likely be quiet for the next few days, but there is showing a disposition to wait for the United States Government report issued March 10th, giving an estimate of grain in farmers' hands on March 1st, in the United States. This is an important feature in the wheat trade and already various guesses are being made as to what the quantity will be. Should the estimate be much larger than usual it would naturally have a depressing effect on prices and the opposite if smaller than looked for.

The guesses so far run from 130,000,000 bushels to 155,000,000 bushels. The reserves last year were 122,000,000 bushels. A March reserve of 130,000,000 bushels would not materially change the situation but with a reserve of 140,000,000 bushels or over markets would likely have a break. It would not be surprising however if the limited range of the price movement experienced the past few months would continue until the spring shifting of winter carried stocks permits a line on the disposition of the present supplies although there may be a broader swing to the market after the United States Government makes known the reserves. If these are large—as generally seems to be expected despite the heavy primary receipts, bearishness may gather fire, especially if the winter wheat condition maintains its present promise. At the same time it must not be forgotten that present prices in North America are closely adjusted to a permanently lower level in this country is bound up with a similar decline in the markets of the world. European crop advances this week are favorable. Russia is offering wheat more freely but it is expected that Roumania and Bulgaria will have smaller crops this season. India reports are good and the yield of the Australian crop is satisfactory. Argentine yields indicate that the export surplus will be slightly under what was first expected. Statistics for the week have been quite bearish. The amount on passage shows a good-sized increase 3,692,000 bushels, bringing the total to 51,128,000 bushels compared to 48,936,000 bushels last week and 35,440,000 bushels last year. European visible supply increased 3,940,000 bushels and the American visible also increased slightly. The World's visible according to Bradstreet's increased 2,751,000 bushels, last week it decreased 1,582,000 bushels. World's shipments for this week were larger than anticipated at 14,352,000 bushels as against 12,422,000 bushels last week and 10,208,000 bushels last year. In detail they are as follows:

	This Week	Last Week
America	4,952,000	3,448,000
Russia	1,192,000	938,000
India	584,000	375,000
Danube	240,000	920,000
Argentina	5,848,000	5,096,000
Australia	1,344,000	1,536,000
China & N. Africa	192,000	120,000

Bushels 14,352,000 12,432,000

The Winnipeg market for futures while declining in sympathy with the United States markets continues to show independent strength but trading at no time has shown any volume. Outside speculation is practically dead and there is no inducement for speculation to take hold. The cash business is also quiet but offerings are readily absorbed by concerns who are willing to take cash grain as long as the futures show a small carrying profit.

Receipts are running under last year but Fort William and Port Arthur terminal stocks including wheat stored in boats, are 5,000,000 bushels more than last year. The congestion at the terminals shows no improvement and hundreds of cars are standing waiting for room to unload. As a result returns are slow which is very annoying to shippers. This state of affairs is likely to last until navigation is open. Today's closing cash prices are 1 Northern 84½c; 2 Northern 81½c; 3 Northern 78½c; No. 4 74½c; No. 5 70c; No. 6 64c; Feed 54c; No. 1 A.R. 86c; No. 2 A.R. 83c; No. 3 A.R. 80c; Futures closed May 87½c; July 88½c; October 84½c.

Receipts are liberal and demand has eased up with a resulting decline in prices. Today's closing values are 2 C.W. 32½c; 3 C.W. 29½c; extra 1 feed 30½c; 1 feed 29½c; 2 feed 27c. Futures closed May 34½c; July 35½c; October 34c.

The barley market is easier in sympathy with other grains and malting grades are ½c lower. There is no change in the feed grades. Today's closing prices are No. 3 C.W. 46½c; No. 4 C.W. 45c. Rejected 40c; feed 39c.

Flax—Receipts are large, there being 112 cars unloaded today. Prices are a shade firmer but are generally about the same. Heavy receipts continue, value of mill flax, 1912-13, today's prices are 1 N.W.C. 38½c; 2 C.W. 37½c; 3 C.W. 36c. Futures closed May 11½c; July 11¼c.

All prices quoted above are for delivery in store Fort William, Port Arthur or Duluth.

One Million for Friedman if he Cures Consumption

Rockville, Conn.—If he can cure consumption $1,000,000 will be paid to Dr. Frederick Friedman by the state of Connecticut according to an extraordinary offer made by State Tuberculosis Commissioner John Gunsham, of Hartford, in an address on public health before the Rockville Business men's Association meeting presided over by Lieutenant-Governor L. T. Tingle, of Vernon.

Continuing amid cheers, he said: If Dr. Friedman has the goods we've got the money. Our commission will be pleased to have Dr. Friedman come here and demonstrate his cure in our sanitariums, each of which is equipped with an up-to-date laboratory. There are 10,000 afflicted with this horrible disease in the state at the present time; 2,000 of these will be claimed by death before the end of the year, and I have the assurance of the most prominent members of the legislature that they will gladly appropriate the necessary money to save the lives of so many of our unfortunate citizens and restore them to health.

Newfoundland Will Participate in Defence of British Empire

St. Johns, Newfoundland.—With a view to participate in the naval defence of the British Empire, the Newfoundland government has opened negotiations with the imperial cabinet.

An announcement to that effect was made by the new governor, Walter Davidson, C.M.G., in the speech from the throne at the opening of the colonial legislature.

The governor also gave notice of the government's intention to remove the duty from tea, sugar and salted meats. This, it was declared, would represent the abrogation of $400,000 in duties annually, the largest reduction in taxation at one time in the colony's history.

Reason for Church Union

London, Ont.—The London Presbytery placed itself on record in favor of union with the Methodist and Congregationalists by unanimously carrying a motion, put forward by Mr. Thomas Alexander, asking the Presbytery to name a committee to look over the weak fields of the Presbytery to approaching the other denominations to consider the feasibility of union or of co-operation. A vigorous discussion followed, but the motion was passed unanimously.

A committee recommended that the peace manifesto of the New Westminster Presbytery be endorsed.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON XI.—FIRST QUARTER, FOR MARCH 15, 1913

Text of the Lesson, Gen. xiii, 1-13. Memory Verses 12, 13—Golden Text Hos. vi, 6—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

In the last part of the previous chapter we see Abraham dwelling at Beersheba, the well of the oath, having made a covenant with Abimelech. There he called on the name of Jehovah, and for the first time we have the name of the everlasting God, which carries us on to Ps. xc, 2; Isa. xl, 28. Every new name of God has some new revelation of Himself.

The everlasting God not only tells us that He is from everlasting to everlasting, but He loves with everlasting love and carries us in His everlasting arms and is always the same Jehovah. (Jer. xxxi, 3; Deut. xxxiii, 27). Whether He blesses us or tries us, He is the same God of love.

For years the heart of Abraham had been made glad by this boy this beloved son for whom he had waited full twenty-five years, and now he is commanded to offer him for a burnt offering. There is nothing quite like this in all the Bible story. The demand seems overwhelmingly awful, but God is love, and God is faithful, and Abraham knew it. The New Testament record is that, knowing the promise and being certain that God would somehow fulfill it, even if He had to raise Isaac up from the dead. He did receive him from the dead in a figure (Heb. xi, 17-19).

After some twenty years Jacob received Joseph back as from the dead. God spared now and Joseph, but He spared not His own son (Rom. viii, 32), and He being literally alive from the dead, all things are made sure to us in Him.

I cannot think that Abraham talked this over with Sarah; but being sure that he would bring the boy back again, he started off early in the morning, taking only two of his young men with him. His destination was Moriah which is now part of Jerusalem—the same hill that David bought from Ornan, the Jebusite where the destroying angel stayed his hand when Jehovah said it is enough, and where Solomon built the temple (II Sam. xiv, 16, 24, 25; II Chron. iii, 1).

How wonderful are the associations of truths and places in Scripture and how all center around the cross and the indescribable sacrifice of the Son of God! It was on the third day that the place was reached and the great transaction accomplished (verse 4), and how often a third day event calls our attention to the greater center of all past history and to the resurrection time, ever drawing nearer. Consider Jonah and the marriage in Cana and all others that you can find in the book.

Note the confidence with which Abraham says to the young men: I and the lad will go and worship and come again to you (verse 5). He was fully persuaded that it would be so. Now see the lad carrying the wood and the father with the fire and the knife, and (verse 6). One cannot but see the Son of God bearing His cross and remember the words: It pleased the Lord to bruise Him; He hath put Him to grief (Isa. liii, 10). It was the only way to save us and so wondrously foreshadowed in Abraham and Isaac.

Hear the lad as he says to his father: Behold the fire and the wood; but where is the lamb for a burnt offering? (Verse 7). Oh, the anguish of the father's heart! But do we ever consider the anguish of the heart of God the Father?

What did he know of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world? (Rev. xiii, 8). Was it just then or when he placed the ram on the altar in Isaac's stead, or through the whole incident that he saw Christ's day and was glad? (John viii, 56). Notice the repeated saying: They went both of them together (verses 5, 6, 8) reminding us of the "they two went on" of II Kings ii, 6, 7, 8, 11, and suggesting perfect oneness and accord. We do not imagine any resistance on the part of Isaac as his father placed him on the altar upon the wood and bound him and took the knife to slay his son. We think of such words as "of his own voluntary will"; "I lay down my life of myself"; "I delight to do Thy will O my God" (Lev. i, 3; John x, 17, 18; Ps. xl, 8; Heb. x, 7-9); and we remember how the Lord Jesus gave Himself into the hands of His enemies and suffered them to take Him and bind Him and lead Him and mock Him and scourge Him and crucify Him and He took it all as a run which His Father gave Him to drink. It was enough. The child of promise was given back to God. Abraham saw God and not the child, and now the Lord speaks, the uplifted hand is raised, and the ram is placed on the altar in Isaac's stead.

Isaac was spared and given back from the dead in a figure. God spared not His own Son, and as truly as the ram died in Isaac's stead so did Jesus Christ die in my stead. His own self bore my sins in His own body on the tree. The Son of God loved me and gave Himself for me. By His being made a curse for us all who truly receive Him are delivered from the curse of the law (I Pet. ii, 24; Gal. iii, 20; III, 13). The Lord did see and provide—Jehovah-Ireah (verse 14 and margin). What He has provided in Him see Eph. i, 3-7; Rom. viii, 29; I Pet. 1-4, and remember "that all is freely by grace" (Rome iii, 24).
